FOCUS

McKenzie Mena focuses exclusively on construction defect litigation—it's all we do. We are very selective in the clients we agree to represent. This focus underscores our commitment to client service by allowing us to provide the necessary personal attention to meet all client needs with the highest degree of professionalism.

EXPERIENCE

McKenzie Mena has assembled an aggressive experienced team to represent associations in construction defect cases. The firm's unique combination of experience representing homeowners coupled with its past experience representing developers and their insurance companies, produces effective results.

TECHNICAL EXPERTISE

McKenzie Mena has a base of technical expertise that extends far beyond the courtroom. A network of construction experts—including architects, civil and structural engineers, and geotechnical professionals—investigates, evaluates, and, if necessary, testifies in each case. We work very closely with these experts because we know getting it done quickly is crucial.
